Nie Young Artist Scholarship Competition

The 2023 edition of the Nie Young Artist Scholarship Competition asks participants to perform two works for the audition. The first work is a required composition chosen from a short list of required works the Scholarship Committee has chosen. The second composition is a work of choice that contrasts with the required composition either in musical style, rhythm or compositional period. Neither composition needs to be memorized.

The competition is opened to pianists, who will compete only with other pianists and bowed-string players, who will only compete with other bowed-string players in specified classifications. The classifications are: Elementary, Intermediate, Advanced and Pre-Collegiate. One qualifies for each category by the choice of the required composition within the specified category. In the Pre-Collegiate level, the requirement is to be able to perform a work by J.S. Bach (one Prelude & Fugue chosen from the WTC, book one or two or the third movement of the 'Italian Concerto') and a work of her/his choice chosen from the standard repertoire of each instrument—preferably a work representative of an audition work for entrance to a college or a university.

There will be two prizes awarded for each of the categories: The Winner and the Honorable Mention. Should the judges view that a standard of performance has not been reached then prizes may not be awarded within each category. Due to the structure of this competition being divided between Bowed-strings and Piano, it is possible for a participant to attempt on both instruments. However, it is not allowed for the participant to enter into two categories within the same instrument.

Important Dates:

The date of the competition will be on Saturday, January 21, 2023. The location for the audition will be Hendricks Performing Arts Center at 409 Pleasant Street in downtown Beloit. The Winners and Honorable Mention Concert will be February 5, 2023 at the First Congregational Church, 3:00 PM.

The application and the $30 fee must be postmarked by Friday, January 6, 2023. This will give the Repertoire Committee time to review all submitted applications and provide needed response should there be any possible questions. The scheduling will be emailed by Thursday, January 12 or Friday, January 13 to inform the participant of the time of their audition.

Other information:

The participant is required to have two copies of the works performed for the judges. (One may offer copies. Please realize that the copies will be taken and disposed of to comply with copyright law.) The participant is also responsible for her/his accompanist. No solo performances are allowed in the audition should the music chosen require accompaniment.

Appendix

For the 2023 edition of the Nie Scholarship Competition the Board of Directors and the Nie Scholarship Committee have decided to return to in-person auditions. Video submission will not be considered for this year.

In the event that a student is feeling ill the day of the audition, please contact us. We understand that not everyone makes the same health decisions for their family, and, while we are not requiring proof of vaccination for anything, we ask that you please consider masking if you or anyone in your household is showing any signs of respiratory illness.

If you require special accommodation, please contact Dr. Ian Nie, scholarship director, as soon as possible to discuss possible solutions.
